Section 10: Reading Comprehension (10 points)

Larry had always dreamed of flying airplanes. Since he was a child, he would look up at the sky and watch the planes crossing the horizon, imagining himself as the pilot. When he finally grew older, he began studying hard to achieve his dream. The training was long, intense, and sometimes even treacherous, filled with moments of overload and exhaustion. Even so, he never gave up. He faced every obstacle with courage and patience, always remembering that every step brought him closer to his goal. His family supported him, even when things seemed worse than expected. Hopefully, his dedication will pay off, and he will soon be able to fly a real airplane. He knows that the experience will be worth all the sacrifice, and that, every now and then, we must challenge ourselves to achieve greatness. Larry believes that as long as he keeps moving forward, nothing will go down the drain. For him, being with friends, sharing his victories, and never losing hope are the keys to success. In the end, Larry's journey is not just about flying airplanes but about proving to himself that he is capable of reaching the sky.

Questions (2 points each):

1. What was Larry's dream?
2. What difficulties did he face during training?
